bakery

a place, or department of a restaurant, that makes flour-based food, such as bread, cakes, and pastries

"The restaurant had its own bakery, which produced the most wonderful bread I have ever tasted."

buffet

A popular method of serving food to large groups, in which a wide variety of dishes are presented on a long table, and customers can take as much as they like

"The queue for the buffet was very long and the food was quite disappointing when we eventually got to it."

choux pastry

a dough that is made in a sauce pan on top of a stove, rather than made from mixing the ingredients in cool conditions in a mixing bowl

"My favourite pastry is choux, so I ordered a big helping of chocolate eclairs."
